

12 CRAZY THINGS WE LEARNED FROM THIS PLASTIC SURGEON'S AMA

Wednesday, June 15th, 2016 13:21

The life of a plastic surgeon must be insane; they literally make their living cutting open and sculpting people like Play-Doh. Well, Detroit-based plastic surgeon Tony Youn, recently sat down and held an AMA (Ask Me Anything) where he took users numerous questions to fill you in on the gritty details of his day-to-day life.

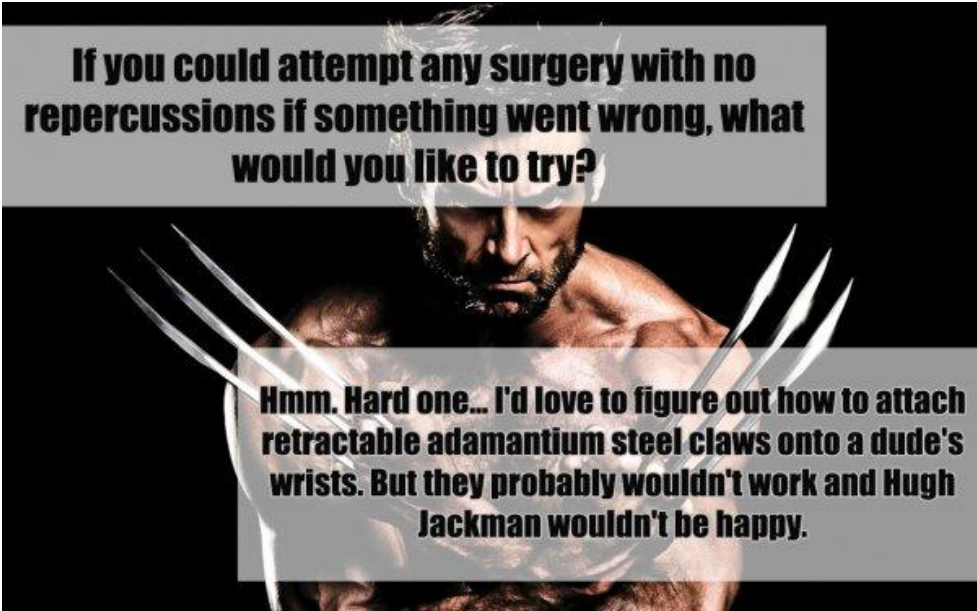

1.

2.

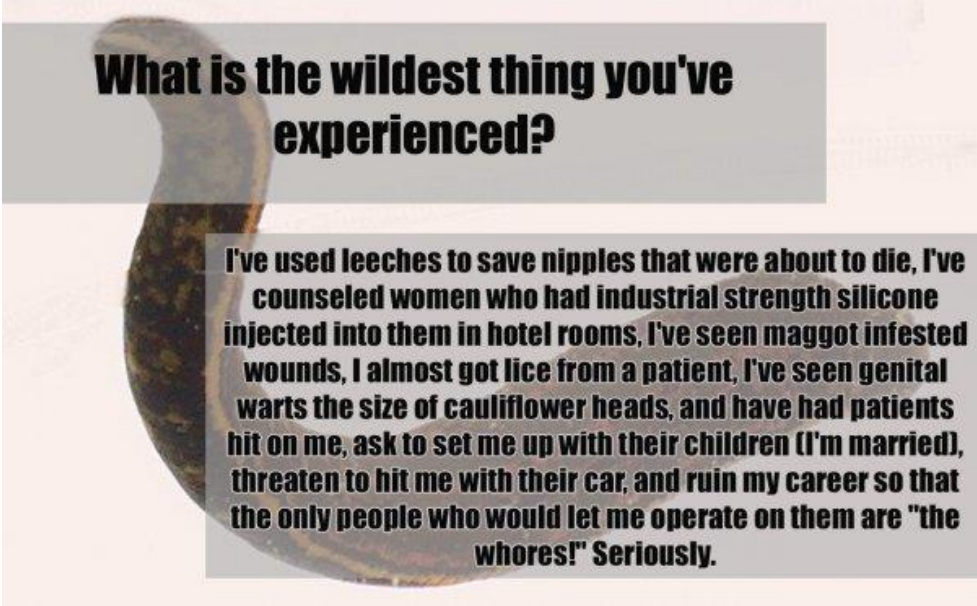

If you could attempt any surgery with no repercussions if something went wrong, what would you like to try?

Hmm. Hard one... I'd love to figure out how to attach retractable adamantium steel claws onto a dude's wrists. But they probably wouldn't work and Hugh Jackman wouldn't be happy.

3.

What is the wildest thing you've experienced?

I've used leeches to save nipples that were about to die, I've counseled women who had industrial strength silicone injected into them in hotel rooms, I've seen maggot infested wounds, I almost got lice from a patient, I've seen genital warts the size of cauliflower heads, and have had patients hit on me, ask to set me up with their children (I'm married), threaten to hit me with their car, and ruin my career so that the only people who would let me operate on them are "the whores!" Seriously.

4.

What's the most cost effective way for someone to improve their beauty?

The easiest and most cost effective way to improve your beauty is: 1. Limit your sugar intake. Sugar is the worst food for your skin. 2. Apply a Vitamin A cream before bed (tretinoin (prescription strength) or retinol) 3. Exfoliate your skin 2-3 times per week.

5.

How much will a scrotum lift cost me?

I hear these are starting to get popular. Never have done one. I have no desire to look and cut on dudes' ballsacks.

6.

Have you ever talked anyone out of surgery?

I've talked a lot of people out of surgery! About 1 out of every 5 people I see in consultation are told no. So many people have issues which can be treated non-surgically, as well. For every 100 patients in my practice, only about 10 are surgical patients. It's crazy how many options we have for looking younger and better without surgery!

7.

Have you done anal bleaching?

Why do you want to know? ;-)

8.

Is your life at all, like the tv show Nip/Tuck?

Yes, it's exactly like Nip/Tuck. I saw 1 episode of that show where one of the doctors killed someone and got in a fight and attacked the other person with a syringe of Botox. He ended up losing the fight and had the Botox injected into his face instead, leaving it droopy and funny-looking. These things happen to me all the time!

9.

Where do you see cosmetic surgery going in the next 16 years? Any trends you've noticed in the last 16?

The trends are all towards not having surgery. The # of people undergoing actual surgery is rising very slowly, whereas the number of people undergoing nonsurgical procedures (Botox, filler, lasers, IPL, radiofrequency, chemical peels, etc.) has exploded. This is definitely the future of plastic surgery: looking better without actual surgery!

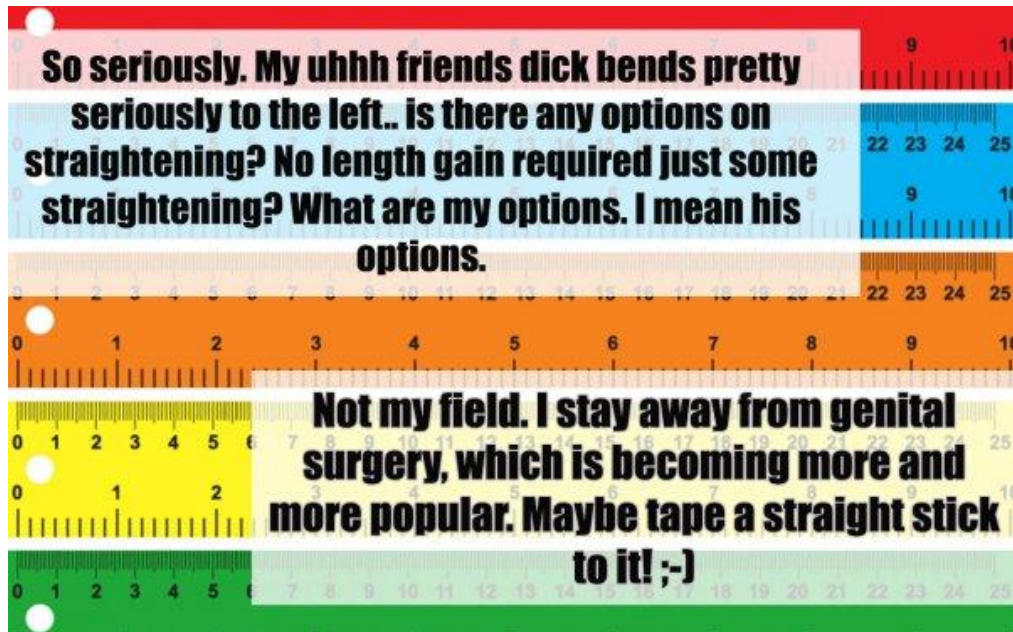

10.

11.

12.

<http://www.newsflow24.com/12-crazy-things-we-learned-from-this-plastic-surgeons-ama-11x8h>