

Missed Out on Kylie's Kylighters? This All-Over Bronzer Is Just as Amazing

THE NEW-NEW HIGHLIGHTER

Yahoo Beauty would like to introduce you to the New-New, a column by Beauty Director Dana Oliver on the latest products, tools, and treatments that she'd happily spend her hard-earned money on.

Photos and short videos of Kylie Cosmetics fans flaunting the new Kylighters are all over my Instagram and Twitter feeds. Like everything else the reality star-turned-makeup maven has launched from her beauty empire, these six shimmering highlighter shades have sold out. There are also unhappy shoppers who claimed to have received empty compacts with their online order. Bummer.

If you missed out on scoring one (or all) of the Kylighters, you should seriously consider getting the new multitasking bronzer by Nudestix.

NUDESTIX

Nudies All Over Face Color Glow is a highlighter that imparts a radiant glow without making you look greasy or like that bizarre gold face Snapchat filter. One end of the tube has the color stick and the other is a super-soft brush, which allows you to buff the product beautifully onto your face and body.

Nudies All Over Face Color Glow comes in three complexion flattering shades: Brown Sugar, Baby (a metallic bronze), Illumi-Naughty (an iridescent lavender pearl), and Hey, Honey (a gilded gold).

I immediately became enamored of Brown Sugar, Baby after just one swipe of the bronzer. The gel-like formula allows it to glide on effortlessly, and the pigment seriously lasts for hours even when exposed to water or sweat.

Whenever I use traditional highlighting powders, I find it difficult to highlight my cupid's bow. However, this stick applicator makes it so easy, as I can just stamp it on straight from the tube or dab the top center of my mouth using my fingertips.

But what I love most about this product is that it allows me to fake that fresh-from-vacation glow without having to book an expensive flight to the Caribbean, which means more money saved to stock up on highlighter sticks.

NudeStix Nudies All Over Face Color Glow ($30) is now available at nudestix.com and sephora.com.
