

THE ZOE REPORT

The Best Drugstore Skincare Products, According To Dermatologists

By: Jaclyn Smock | 13 August 2018

We love all things skincare and are firm believers that you don't have to max out your credit card to have a great routine that gets the job done. But, if you are still a skeptic, ask any dermatologist what their favorite products are, and chances are they are devoted drugstore brand users, too. That's why we spoke to top dermatologists to find out what they swear by when strolling down the drugstore aisle.

No Need To Splurge

If You're Looking For SPF...

Any quality dermatologist knows that daily SPF is non-negotiable, which is why Celebrity Cosmetic Dermatologist, Dr. Paul Jarrod Frank swears by La Roche Posay Anthelios SPF 50 Mineral Ultra-light Sunscreen Fluid. "The lightweight oil-free formula is suitable for all different skin types, which makes it my go-to formula," he shares.

If You're Looking For A Bump Eradicator

Few OTC acne gels work as well as "Differin, the prescription-strength retinoid that has serious blemish banishing powers," says Beverly Hills Dermatologist, Dr. Ava Shamban. She recommends this tube, as it effectively clears and rejuvenates skin after just one use.

Differin Adapalene Gel Acne Treatment

Walmart

$13

<http://thezoereport.com/beauty/skincare/best-drugstore-skincare-products/>