

The Dos & Don'ts Of Putting Sunscreen On A Tattoo

By Samantha Sasso | July 29, 2019

Getting a tattoo during the summer isn't impossible — it's just complicated. Any professional will tell you that the key to healing freshly-inked body art is keeping it out of the sun, at least for the first few weeks. But what if you have a beach vacation planned just days after your tattoo appointment and don't want to cancel either? What do you do?

5. Drunk Elephant Umbra™ Sheer Physical Daily Defense Sunscreen SPF 30

Not going on vacation any time soon, but still in search of an everyday sunscreen? Consider this sheer, fragrance-free formula. Board-certified dermatologist and celebrity beauty expert Anna Guanche says that SPF 30 — or higher! — is acceptable.

Drunk Elephant Umbra™ Sheer Physical Daily Defense Sunscreen SPF 30, $34.00, available at Sephora.
